Music

- Since the manual was published, one change has been made to the number of required originals of the music: Contestants in individual or solo competition categories (vocal or instrumental) will need one original of each selection of music performed for judges to reference. If the contestant or accompanist will be using music for any performance, those will also need to be originals. Photocopies are not permitted.
- As stated in the manual, contestants in group competition categories will need three originals of each selection of music performed for judges to reference. If the contestant or accompanist will be using music for any performance, those will also need to be originals. Photocopies are not permitted.
- Photocopies are permitted only with written publisher’s permission. Written permission from the publisher must be attached to each copy that is supplied to the judges. Use of photocopies without publisher permission will be penalized.

Debate 2020

Resolved: The United States federal government should substantially reduce Direct Commercial Sales and/or Foreign Military Sales of arms from the United States.

Science Fair

The AACCS Competition Manual (2015 edition) includes the new Science Fair Manual. The Science Fair Manual was significantly changed with this edition. Previous editions no longer apply. Since they are interviewed by the judges, science fair contestants must attend National Competition. (See judging form, Presentation and Documentation #2.)

Art

- Print art I.D. tag on cardstock. Cut to size. Or you may get an art I.D. tag when you check-in on campus.
- All art works must be ready to display (see General Rule #5, p. 51). Reminder: Work that is matted but not framed must have hook-side Velcro[®] in the four corners (more may be necessary for larger or heavier entries).

Spelling

Clarification of Spelling Procedure Rule 2m: “When the students are reduced to two, the elimination procedure changes, but not before the completion of the current round.”

- The intent of the rule change is to ensure that the remaining competitors have correctly spelled the same number of words as eliminated competitors before changing the procedure, so the current round must be completed before the procedure changes. If, at the completion of a round, only one competitor remains who has not misspelled a word, that competitor is the first-place winner and the two-person elimination procedure outlined in rule m does not occur. The second- and third-place winners are awarded in the order that they were eliminated from the contest. If, at the completion of a round, only two competitors remain, the elimination procedure outlined in rule m is employed to finish the contest and third place is awarded to the last competitor eliminated in the previous round. If, at the conclusion of a round, all competitors have been eliminated, the contest must resume as things were at the beginning of that round—all competitors who were still in the contest at the beginning of that round are restored and a new round begins with those competitors spelling in the original order.
- The AACS office will randomly assign the order in which spellers are to compete and give that order to the spelling master.
